McAuley Recyclers

American Government is more than a textbook to Ms. Chris Pollard's class at Mother McAuley Liberal Arts High School. The students are actively participating in a service learning project which includes picking up and disposing of recyclable paper for the entire school. If it sounds like a big job, it is! These senior students admit "it is a real workout."

Nevertheless, these young women enthusiastically and efficiently seek out recyclable paper from offices and classrooms throughout the school every Thursday. Thanks to the generosity of Home Depot in Oak Lawn, the class was able to put plastic bins in almost every room. The students and Ms. Pollard hope that their project will encourage the community to recycle at home and at their offices.
